BUSY TIME FOR TOWN FACTORIES

Large Orders Promise to Keep Various Establishments in Gettysburg Busy during the Summer Months. Encouraging Outlook.

A busy summer is ahead for the various industries of Gettysburg and during the year it is expected that a great output of local products will come from the town than ever before in its history.

Within a very short time it is expected that a full force of men will be at work at the plant of the Auburn Shale Brick Company. The burning problem seems to have been solved by the installation of a forced draught system instead of the old natural draught and a capacity of 30,000 bricks a day will be the limit of the establishment. The character of the material used in the manufacture of the bricks has been found very hard on the dies and it has required some time to solve this problem. The product of the local plant is recognized as first class and the demand will be fully as large as the supply. W. F. Oswald, the manager, expects to employ about forty five hands when the plant runs at capacity.

The Reaser Furniture Company is now a month behind with its orders and there is no probability of any letup there all summer. The plant is the busiest place in town and is turning out the finest kind of work for the big city stores and other furniture firms. The salesmen of the firm have no trouble whatever in disposing of the product and the local factory will go right on trying to catch up with their orders making this as good a year as any they have ever had, if not a better one.

Speese and Pfeiffer have added to their tile establishment east of town a ditching machine which can be used by farmers who purchase their tile at a great saving of time and labor. The machine makes the trenches for the tile at the rate of three hundred rods a day and is available to all patrons of the plant. Orders have been received from this state, from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia and the Speese and Pfeiffer establishment will run full time throughout the summer.

In a few days work on the new plant of the Gettysburg Furniture Company will be started to be rushed to completion just as fast as the mechanics can get up the buildings. Work on the inside will be started before many months and it is hoped to have a sample of the product at the July furniture show in New York. Starting with seventy hands the force will be increased as work warrants and, as the sale of the entire output of the factory is practically assured for the next five years, a large pay roll is sure to follow. This, with the other tur-niture plant, will make the east end of town about the busiest section of Adams County.

The Gettysburg Ice and Storage Company expects even a better year than last which showed the largest gross business of its history. The summer promises to be a much better one for the town than last year and the local demand will consequently be larger while the foreign trade, which the local plant has been supplying, is expected to continue, the products of the company giving general satisfaction to their customers.

PLANNING FOR POULTRY SHOW

Adams County Poultry Exhibit Planned for the Winter. Want Fancy Fowls Raised here during the Summer Months.

A big poultry show, similar to those held in Franklin and other nearby counties, is planned for this county for next winter and the promoters are now starting a campaign of publicity so that all those interested in growing chickens, turkeys, pigeons and other domestic fowls may start breeding for the exhibition.

It is proposed to run the affair on the same lines followed in other sections. A state poultry man will be secured to judge the fowls and blue ribbons will be offered and probably some prizes. It is likely that Bigl-erville will be the place for the show and all parts of the county will be asked to join in making the affair a success.

While farmers and poultry raisers generally are asked to breed fancy poultry for the exhibition the young boys of the county will also be urged to take an interest in it and some fancy birds may be expected from the youngsters. The committee in charge will give information to all those who wish to purchase thoroughbred stock or eggs for hatching and it is planned to get as many as possible interested at an early date. With all summer and fall to prepare for the exhibit a very creditable showing should be made by the county poultry raisers.

The effort up to this time has been made principally by individuals but the organization of the Adams County Poultry Association is now in prospect and those interested will be asked to join and aid actively in furthering the project.

The committee in charge of matters at the present time includes the following: O. C. Rice, J. Hoke Slaybaugh, E. D. Heiges, C. E. Raffensperger, D.
C. Jacobs and C. A. Wolfe.

YOU CAN'T VOTE

Voters who move from one ward of town to another around April 1 will not be qualified to take part in the selection of nominees for congress and the state legislature and delegates to the state and national conventions of the several political parties.

The election laws provide that a voter must have resided in a ward or precinct two months before the date of the primaries to register and vote and the period between "moving day" and the primaries will be less than one month.

Young men who become of age on or before April 13 next must be registered on March 27 in order to cast ballots at the spring primaries. Those voting on age will not have to have a tax receipt but all others must produce the papers or show or swear that they paid taxes within two years before their names can be enrolled.

claimed in the Gettysburg post office ber of familiar hymns.

FIRST SERVICE IN NEW CHURCH

Easter Sunday will Mark Opening of Portion of New St. James Lutheran Church. No More Services in Brua Chapel after that.

On Easter Sunday St. James Lutheran congregation will worship in their new church for the first time. Only the Sunday School room will be finished at that time, but, as its capacity will be between 700 and 800, it will be ample for all purposes.

Work has been rushed on this portion of the building the past few weeks and it has gotten along so rapidly that contractor W. H. Johns has assured the congregation that all will be in readiness for the Easter services. The room is most attractive and when the chairs and pews have been placed will be decidedly the most modern Sunday School room in the town.

The pews from the old church will be used in the "pit" and in the galleries. The chairs from the old Sunday School room will be used in the balance of the space. The various classes will be divided from each other by certain partitions though these will not be installed for several weeks. The galleries provide for a much larger seating capacity than would have been possible by any other arrangement.

The first service to be held will be at nine o'clock Easter Sunday morning when Sunday School will convene.
From that the Sunday School services will be held in the morning. At the morning church service at 10.30 there will be confirmation and in the evening at seven o'clock the Sunday School will render its Easter service. No further services will be held in Brua Chapel and the College Church.

Following the completion of the Sunday School room work on the main auditorium will be taken up and hurried along as rapidly as possible, the basement and other portions of the church also coming in for their share of attention. The old bell will not swing from the new belfry until warm weather has come to stay and the balance of the masonry work on the tower can be safely completed.

FAIR WEATHER THIS WEEK

Fair weather over the greater part of the country, with temperature near or slightly below the seasonal average during the next several days is promised by the Weather Bureau in a bulletin.

"Rain or snow is probable, however," says the bulletin. "On Monday in the Northern Atlantic States and the extreme upper Ohio Valley. The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear in the Far West Tuesday or Wednesday, cross the Middle West Wednesday and Thursday and the Atlantic States near the close of the week; this disturbance will be preceded and attended by a general rise in temperature and local rains in the Southern and rains and snows in Northern States, and be followed by considerably colder weather, which will appear in the North western States Thursday or Friday."

NEARLY KILLED UNDER WHEELS OF OIL WAGON

Joshua F. Tyson, York, who was hurt last week at Abbotstown by falling under the heels of the oil wagon of which he is the driver, is reported to be in a critical condition. Mr. Tyson drives an oil wagon for the Atlantic Refining Company, and when in the vicinity of Abbotstown he was seized with vertigo, fell off and both wheels passed over his body. No bones were broken but it is feared he may be hurt internally. It was considered inadvisable to bring him home as yet.
His family were notified by telegram and have gone to his side.

Fire Company No. 1, A. P. Wagner, coats are to be double-breasted with white metal buttons, while the front center. Additional uniforms will be added in the near future. The mem-

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN BED

Woman who Lived alone at Home in Mount Joy Township Found Dead when Neighbors Broke into the House.

Mrs. Margaret Carl was found dead in bed Saturday afternoon at her home in Mt. Joy township, by Rev. J. Stewart Hartman and other neighbors who had not seen her about for several days and thought that she might be ill.
She lived entirely alone.

Mrs. Carl resided near the Hoffman Orphanage and with several other neighbors Rev. Mr. Hartman went to her home Saturday afternoon and tried to gain entrance. They found every thing locked and finally broke in.

Upon going to her bedroom they found her lifeless body in the bed where she had apparently slept away.
There was nothing to indicate when death had occurred.

Mrs. Carl, who was seventy years of age, was the widow of Henry Carl who died at the County Home several years ago. She leaves three children, John Carl, of Gettysburg; Mrs. Ellen Reubenstine, of Wolf's Hill and Mrs.
Martha Sterner, of Greenmount.

Funeral Tuesday morning at nine o'clock at Grace Church, Two Taverns.

DOUBTS FULTON'S ORE FIND

Interests identified with Baltimore's iron trade do not accept with absolute credibility the statement that vast deposits of high grade iron ore have been discovered in Fulton county.

"It would be a most astonishing fact if this discovery is true," said R.
C. Hoffman, Jr., whose firm is the largest handler of iron and steel in Baltimore. "That whole country has been exploited over and over again by experienced geologists and ore experts in efforts to locate just such deposits.
That so vast a field, right under their eyes, could have been passed over makes the claim now made seem incredible. I must await further developments before I can accept such a statement."

Mr. Hoffman said that if ore in such quantity and high metallic properties has been found it would mean much to iron and steel manufacturers.
It will lessen the cost of production by eliminating the freight charges on ore from Lake Superior, Spain, Cuba and other places from which the best grades are now obtained.

In Washington members of the United States geological survey were not ready to confirm the discovery.
Dr. George Otis Smith, speaking of it said:

"It is, of course, quite possible that such a discovery has been made, but the weight of probability lies against it. The state of Pennsylvania has been thoroughly explored and all available bodies of ore are believed to be known. Indeed the work has been regarded as so well done and so nearly completed that the United States geological survey has done no work there for years in iron. We continue to work on coal deposits but in the matter of iron that is a work left entirely to the State geologists."

PROBABLE WHEAT SHORTAGE

Deputy Secretary A. L. Martin, of the department of agriculture, says that the wheat crop of Pennsylvania for this year will be short. He has just completed a tour of the state in connection with the farmers' institutes and he has found that the cause for the poor outlook is the wet weather of last September and October at seeding time, which was followed by very cold days, so that much of the seed did not germinate.

In the eastern and southern parts of the state the crop may be fair, according to Martin. In central and western Pennsylvania the crop may be 70 per cent, of an average.

STUDENTS STUNNED

During the short but severe electrical storm which swept over the town and county Sunday evening two college students, Messrs. Spicher and Weber were blinded by a flash which apparently broke over the chemical laboratory on the college campus. The young men were approaching South College when the bolt descended and was followed by heavy thunder. They were unable to go on for several moments. Other students thought one of the buildings had been struck and there were a few exciting minutes before it was found that all was safe.

HOMES FOUND

A large number of replies followed the appearance of an ad in these columns for homes for a boy and a girl.
Both have been placed through the ad.

TWO EXPENSIVE MINE SETTLEMENTS

Stove Plant and Monastery Ruined at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., March 25.—The plant of the Graff Furnace company, manufacturers of stoves and ranges, was practically ruined by a settling of underground workings.

The building, of concrete and wood, 400 by 200 feet, is cracked and twisted out of shape. The floor has fallen four feet and all of the machinery is out of commission. The plant employs 100 molders.

In the same vicinity is the monastery of the Passionist Order. The monastery, which is of brick and stone, is showing cracks and sagging walls. The monks have taken the matter up with the coal company, and if mining under the building does not cease the building will be abandoned.

The monastery was built about eight years ago and cost approximately $225,000. With the grounds of many acres the property represents a value of $500,000.

MONITOR'S VICTORY IN OIL

Painting of Great Naval Fight Presented to U. S. National Museum.

Washington, March 25.—In commemoration of the recent fiftieth anniversary of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimack, in Hampton Roads, the Swedish-American Republican league, of Illinois, has presented to the United States national museum an oil painting of the great naval fight and a portrait of their countryman, John Ericsson, the inventor of the Monitor.

The battle painting is by Henry Reuterdahl, of New York, while the portrait of Ericsson is by Arvid Myholm, of Chicago.

It is understood that these canvases will be added to the collection of the United States national museum and form part of the national collection of historical pictures.

With his knowledge of conditions in the east and south, he is expected to help Senator Dixon materially, the latter being more familiar with the west.

Enforce "Blue Laws."

Paterson, N. J., March 25.—Agitation for enforcement of so-called "blue laws" resulted Sunday in the suspension of practically all business here. Drug stores were the only ones to remain open. The police saw to it that the excise laws were strictly complied with, resulting in the "driest" Sunday within local memory. The milkmen were not interfered with.

T.R. PLEASED WITH MAINE JAUNT

Believes Portland Speech Will Produce Results.

ON THE STUMP TODAY

Colonel Roosevelt is Speaking in Harlem This Afternoon and in the Bronx This Evening.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 25.—Colonel Roosevelt returned from his Maine jaunt, pleased and confident that the speech at Portland is going to bear fruit in Maine and will produce a practical result at the polls. The colonel rode out from New York with Kermit Roosevelt, who had met him there, and the two drove direct to Sagamore Hill.

The colonel was in his usual exuberant mood on the return journey from Portland notwithstanding his spill, the result of the collapsing platform at Portland and the loss of his pajamas enroute.

Medell McCormick, the Roosevelt chief of staff at Washington, who came down from Portland to New York with the colonel, did most of the talking of gleanings from the Maine trip. The colonel's welcome to Portland was an ovation, he said. He told of applauding crowds lining the streets.

"The older men told the colonel's friends," he continued, "that in the state for more than a generation there had not been an audience which for size, intelligence and for the enthusiasm equalled that which listened to Colonel Roosevelt on Saturday night."

Mr. McCormick said that a statewide Roosevelt organization had been formed after the meeting to campaign in all towns and counties where delegates to the state convention have not yet been elected. The state convention meets on April 10. He claimed one-half of those delegates to the state convention already elected as instructed for Roosevelt and the other half as instructed.

"Saturday night the Taft leaders privately conceded the state to Roosevelt," said Mr. McCormick. The Roosevelt leaders in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Maine had told Mr. McCormick, he said, that the Republican rank and file in those states are from two to one to six to one for the colonel.

"The Taft managers in New Hampshire are blocking the demand that the voters in the town caucuses shall also be permitted to express their preference as between presidential candidates," continued Mr. McCormick.

"There is a growing feeling among Republicans in New England that Colonel Roosevelt's nomination is the only guarantee of victory in November. The campaign in New England for Colonel Roosevelt's nomination really began only last week. He is being opposed by such reactionary leaders as Senators Crane and Gallinger. He will carry the three northern states if the federal and local machines do not prove strong enough to smother popular sentiment. The people are with him, but the bosses are against him."

The colonel left Oyster Bay this morning for his whirl of speaking in Harlem and the Bronx in the evening.

Mr. Roosevelt made very emphatic his belief of a story in a New York newspaper that he had been receiving threatening letters. He said that such a thing was preposterous and ridiculed it as consummate nonsense, as he had done before, the idea that any such letters had been received.

ARMED MEN ROB CLUB

Bind and Gag Watchmen and Then Blow Open Safe.

New York, March 25.—Four masked men, heavily armed, forced their way into the Saratoga club, West Twenty-second street, pointed revolvers at Alfred Luftgarden, a waiter, acting as a watchman, bound, gagged and blindfolded him, broke open a safe and escaped with $4200 in jewelry and $300 in cash.

The waiter managed to free himself of his gag after a half hour's work and called for help. The loot obtained belonged to the proprietors of the club, David Bernstein and Louis Sovenir.

Kills Cousins and Will Die.

Savannah, Ky., March 25.—In a fight here Charles May, aged seven years, and William P. May, aged nine years, were shot and killed by Harry Rayburn, aged nineteen years, who himself was fatally stabbed. The three young men were cousins. The fight originated over a trivial matter and friends attempted to prevent it but finding their efforts useless, stood by and let the fatal affair proceed.

AVOID FOREIGN POTATOES

Tubers Imported From Europe Not Good For Planting.

Washington, March 25.—Although home-grown seed potatoes are selling at high prices, foreign-grown potatoes should not be substituted for them.

The following statement on the danger to the American potato crop from the use of imported seed potatoes is issued by the secretary of agriculture:

"Europe has several potato diseases not now known to exist in this country, which, if introduced, might be the means of greatly reducing our annual yield of potatoes. Should these diseases become prevalent throughout the United States the cost of producing future crops might be very greatly increased."

"Do not, therefore, under any circumstances, use foreign-grown potatoes for seed, either at the north or at the south. The sorts which are coming to this country at the present time are late sorts and are not adapted to planting in the south, where early potatoes are the main crop, neither are they adapted to planting at the north, for they will not produce a satisfactory yield."

"The year not adapted to our soils or to our climate, and will not yield profitable crops. But the danger of introducing diseases not now present is sufficient reason for refusing to plant them."

WEST BURIED UNDER TWO FEET OF SNOW

Storm in Missouri Breaks Records For Heavy Falls.

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—The deepest snow in the history of the local weather bureau covers Kansas City and vicinity, and the storm continues. The two-foot mark was recorded Sunday.

The storm extends over most of Kansas, only the extreme northeast corner escaping, and over western Missouri. Further south snow turned to rain. Tulsa getting three inches. Nearly five inches of snow fell at Oklahoma City.

Railroads entering Kansas City have experienced little difficulty in keeping their lines open so far, but have been forced to use snow plows all night. Street car traffic is entirely suspended.

The storm breaks all records for heavy snows for the season in Missouri. Only sixty and twenty-two inches of snow has fallen this winter 38.3 inches during February and in March.

SAVED BY MEDICATED STEAM

Child, Seemingly Dying of Croup, Gets Novel Treatment.

Reading, Pa., March 25.—At the Homeopathic hospital here a notable victory over death was scored, when the three-year-old son of John Hammeil, of Shillington, was saved.

The child was in a precarious condition with croup, and had a throat twice its natural size. A canopy was erected over a cot, the flaps tightly closed and the inclosure filled with medicated steam.

For three hours two doctors and four nurses worked with feverish energy over the child, who at one moment seemed to be arousing from stupor and throwing off the impediment in his throat, and the next would sink back, an inert mass. At last they conquered, and the child is now able to sit up in bed, and will recover.

GANDER BITES CHILD

Attacks Little Girl Because She Was Wearing Red Jacket.

Elkton, Md., March 25.—Florence, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Paul, who own and live on the Elkdale farms, along Elk river, while playing in the yard at her home was attacked by a vicious gander, knocked down and bitten on the face several times.

One wound was about a half inch from one eye, making a very ugly wound and closing the eye.

At the time the child was wearing a red jacket, which is supposed to have caused the gander to attack her. But for the timely arrival of the little one's mother it is probable that her injuries would have been more serious.

Corn Sprouted in Appendix.

Lawrenceville, Ind., March 25.—Three grains of corn that had begun to sprout were found in the appendix of James B. Powell, a wealthy farmer, when he was operated upon for an appendicitis. The appendix was eleven inches long. Powell had a habit, he said, of eating a few grains of corn every time he fed his stock.

Negro Slashes White Men.

Norfolk, Va., March 25.—Floyd Turner, a negro, ran amuck in Main street, and before he was subdued he had slashed three white men with a razor. The negro got down on his hands and knees and cut the legs and arms of his victims and then jumped up and slashed their faces.

A MEASURE OF MERIT
Gettysburg Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.
Proof of merit lies in evidence. Convincing evidence in Gettysburg, is not the testimony of strangers, but the endorsement of Gettysburg people.
That's the kind of proof given here—The statement of a Gettysburg citizen, Mrs. J. Warren Ginoer, 130 W. Middle St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Since I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago, two of my relatives have taken them and have been greatly benefited. I suffered terribly from backache, headaches and dizzy spells and I know that I had kidney complaint. Nothing relieved me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Store. I am grateful for the benefit they have brought and shall always recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

EARLY MATING BEST.
If that early bird gets the worm, early mated fowls beget best offspring and their hustling owner gets the top notch price. So get busy.
Geese, to insure fertility, if strangers to the place, should be mated early in the fall. Otherwise, like humans, they get homesick and neglect business. Geese, turkeys and ducks often lay and hatch very early, so let them go to housekeeping early and avoid the rush.
Hens and roosters must be hatched in plenty of time before natural breeding season.
Large breeds, like Cochins, so slow to mature, should be mated early in February. March settings are all right for Rocks, Dories and Reds. Birds of the Leghorn type are all right for April and May.
To win at fall shows chicks should be hatched in January. To fill the place of hens that knock off laying in mid winter must be hatched in January and February, but such pullets make poor winter layers, as they molt after egg debut.

Vigorous adult stock that has not been inbred nor forced for winter eggs is best, and birds should be studied well before mating so no change need be made, as mates become greatly attached to each other and a separation and new mating often result in infertility.
Know your birds individually. Know your breed's characteristics. Mate for an ideal.
Mating birds with same defect increases it in the offspring. A slight defect in one may be offset with a perfection in that respect in another, but a good bird cannot eradicate a gross defect in the other.
The larger the breed the longer for eggs to become fertile, ten days mating being generally sufficient.
The proportion of females to male in pen depends on breed. Birds of Leghorn style, fifteen to twenty-five, American and English breeds, ten to fifteen; Asiatics, eight to ten.

DON'TS.
Don't let the merchant mix your eggs with others and sell them all for yours.
Don't let hens make their nests under the buildings or in the horse stable.
Don't allow visiting during laying hours. Hens knock off laying when excited.
Don't mark your poultry with paint when a toe punch is better and mark can't come off.
Don't keep eggs in a tight vessel. Spread on a tray in a well ventilated, clean, cool room and market early.
Don't neglect to change water often if feeding dry mash, as particles of mash from birds' bills sour the water.
Don't use open water vessels. Hens dip their combs and wattles in them, they freeze and the hens knock off lay long.
Don't use an old flat corncrib that is a food supply depot for mice and hens when heavy wire is cheap and guards the grain.
Don't have rotten eggs in your possession. It's conclusive evidence in certain states that you are in the rot and spot business.

OUTLAWS IN MOUNTAIN TRAP

Aliens Said to Be Surrounded by Posses.

CAPTURE SEEMS CERTAIN

They Are Hemmed In From Every Side and Are Believed to Be Preparing For Desperate Resistance.
Hillsville, Va., March 25.—The fugitive Allen outlaws have been run to earth by the detectives.
High up in the mountains of the Blue Ridge, where they have burrowed since the Virginia authorities refused absolutely to accept any other terms than unconditional surrender, the desperate men are preparing to resist capture to the last drop of their blood.
No one in Hillsville believes that they will tamely surrender, knowing full well that such a surrender means a "dawg's death" in the electric chair.
Sidna Allen, the leader of the clan, has been located in Sugar Loaf mountain, five miles away from the hiding place of Claude Swanson Allen, the brother of Floyd. Friel Allen, Jasper's son, and Wesley Edwards, the most desperate of the two Edwards boys, have been discovered entrenched ten miles north of Mount Airy, near the North Carolina line.
Hemmed in, as they are, with posse after posse pouring into the hills and cutting off their escape from every side, it is believed that their capture is practically certain. Nor is it any less certain that the victory will be won by the officers of the law, but there will be loss of life on both sides. The Aliens are known to be crack shots. They are also known to be fearless, desperate men.
As soon as the detectives had located the outlaws word was immediately sent to Mount Airy and Hillsville asking for reinforcements. A message has also been sent to Governor Mann with the positive statement that their capture is now only a question of hours.
Under the direct charge of Chief Baldwin himself, posses were at once dispatched south from Hillsville. The sheriff of Surry county, N. C., with a number of his deputies, a score of detectives and several citizen volunteers, started up into the mountains from Mount Airy.
They will work their way to the south of the place where the fugitives are in hiding, while on the north the outlaws will be confronted by a hundred men, detectives, deputy sheriffs and volunteers working from the Hillsville end.
It is said that Jasper Allen, father of Friel, will be at the head of the posse whose business it is to capture Sidna Allen in his lonely retreat in the Sugar Loaf. Then it will be brother against brother in dead earnest, because not only is Jasper Allen anxious to save his son from the electric chair, but he is also said to be enraged against the ones whom he believes responsible for inducing his seventeen-year-old son to participate in the tragedy at the Hillsville court house.
It has been raining hard and the weather has turned bitterly cold. These conditions are far more disastrous to the Aliens than they are to the men who are hunting them down, who are warmly clad and wear rubber boots. Rugged and hardy as they are, it is not believed that the Aliens can hold out much longer in the face of the terrific odds that confront them.

The two men were in the boiler five minutes before their cries for help were heard.

UNKNOWN NEGRO LYNCHED

Man Who Killed Constable Taken From Jail and Hanged.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 25.—A mob broke into the city jail here, seized an unidentified colored man who had shot and killed Deputy Constable Andrew Carr.
The man was dragged through the most prominent business street in the town to the front of a hotel and hanged to a telephone pole.
Five hundred men were in the mob. They surged around the pole for almost an hour. After trying to batter down a steel door with a telephone pole, members of the mob tore the bars from a window of the prison.
Soon they had their victim. He prayed for his life as he was dragged through the streets and to the telephone pole used as a gallows.
The mob dispersed immediately after the colored man was strung up and quiet was restored as soon as his body was cut down.

The crime was due to a political crusade against the prince-governor, against whom the enmity of the Hellenic party in the island had been directed since his appointment as ruler by Turkey in 1907.

Ohio ranks next to Pennsylvania in this respect, with a total of 1932.56.

MISERY GROWS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Closing of Mills Makes Hundreds of Thousands More Idle.

MANY FACING REAL POVERTY

Strike Benefits Soon to Cease and Little Hope Is Seen in the Minimum Wage Bill.
London, March 25.—Misery caused by the coal strike grows daily. One after another mills are closing all over the country for want of coal, newspapers are filled with accounts of the dire straits to which hundreds of thousands of innocent persons are reduced, and in the potteries 80,000 workers, one-third of the entire force of employees, are dependent for food on relief funds, which are totally inadequate.
Similar tales come from South Wales, Scotland, Yorkshire and other industrial centers. The condition of the children is specially pitiable. Tens of thousands of these have no food other than that publicly distributed at schools, and in many places women are reported as fainting while waiting outside of relief depots.
Throughout the country well-to-do women are taking charge of relief work. In northern Nottinghamshire the Duchess of Portland has undertaken the work in the districts where the duke is the principal owner of the mineral rights. She motors, accompanied by her daughter, from cottage to cottage, leaving supplies for the impoverished families.
All this unemployment means a tremendous drain on the funds of the unions. Thus far the miners alone have received $2,900,000 in strike pay. The secretary of one of the largest unions said that their treasuries would be drained to the last penny before the trouble was over, a condition of affairs which is causing much resentment against the leaders of the miners, who are accused of stubbornness.
Residents of the cities who usually spend the Saturday afternoon and Sunday in the country were unable to leave town, as the railways, pleading shortage of coal, cancelled trains by the hundreds.
The railroad companies have decided also not to run special race trains for the opening of the flat racing season, and it is now doubtful whether they will even be able to run holiday special trains at Easter.
All this means further reductions in the working staffs of the railways, which have laid off 40,000 skilled men already, every one of whom is drawing out-of-work benefits from the railway men's trade unions. The same thing applies in other industries affected by the lack of coal, which now includes practically every trade in the country.
The cotton mills at Nelson, Bolton and other centers in Lancashire are closing down rapidly, while most of the factories in Leeds have either stopped entirely or are running on half time. Foundries everywhere have drawn their fires.
The navy, too, is beginning to feel the effects of the strike. Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, in answer to a question in the house of commons, announced that the strike unquestionably would retard the progress of the work on new ships building for the navy and on the naval bases under construction.
The government minimum wage bill as it stands will not settle the coal strike. That is now admitted on all sides. Therefore, with the gravest anxiety the country awaits the results of the joint conference of coal owners and miners. The miners' leaders have consented to waive their district schedule, which heretofore they have maintained as the only basis of a settlement which they would accept, but they will insist upon their demand for the five and two-shilling minimum.
The government adheres to its refusal to embody these rates in the bill. If the owners agree to concede this demand, it is the general opinion that the strike will be speedily settled; if they do not it will make little difference whether the bill in its present shape is passed or withdrawn. Bill or no bill, the men will remain out with the minimum demand unsatisfied, and the strike will continue.

One-Sixth of Canal Yet to Dig.
Washington, March 25.—Only one-sixth of the excavation necessary to open the Panama canal to navigation remained to be done on March 1, and this must be completed in twenty-one months if Colonel Goethals is to redeem his promise to have an American battleship—probably the famous old Oregon—pass through the waterway Jan. 1, 1915.
Taft Praises Unitarian Religion.
Washington, March 25.—President Taft was among the speakers at the annual banquet of the Unitarian Society of Washington. Mr. Taft praised the Unitarian viewpoint in religion and said members of the orthodox church bodies were more liberal in their views today than they were a generation ago.
Crack Shaft Pounds Out Life.
Pottsville, Pa., March 25.—Frank Kelly, an eighteen-year-old machinist at Pine Knot shaft, was struck by the crack shaft of the huge water hoisting engine and literally pounded to death.

BIG COMEDY SUCCESS

"Over Night," the reigning comedy success, will be the attraction at the New Colonial Theatre, Hanover, Thursday, March 28th. From first to last, "Over Night" is brimful and running over with fun. It is fun of the natural, easy, simple and laughable kind, and it comes at the most unexpected moment. Running all through the piece are ludicrous situations, which appeal at once to an audience, while the company is so strong, both in individual work and "team work" as to make the most of every bit of comedy and of every situation. No one can sit through a performance of "Over Night" without laughter, and it is laughter which springs spontaneously at the most unexpected moments. The story so badly mixed on their honeymoon, contains enough possibilities for humor to satisfy.

CLAY IN MOUNTAIN

As soon as the weather permits, Q. Parker Ahl, a prominent resident of Boiling Springs, will put a force of men to work excavating to ascertain the size of the veins of white clay on his tracts of mountain land in the southwestern section of Cumberland county.

Samples of the earth will be sent to Philadelphia for analysis and it found to be of a good quality and in a good quantity, mining operations on an extensive scale will be started immediately following the report of the analysis. Mr. Ahl owns nearly 1,300 acres of land in the upper end of the Cumberland county.

The writer had the pleasure last winter of spending a day aboard a dairy special which made some eight or ten stops on a given line of road. He was fully persuaded at the close of the day that no farmer living within a radius of twenty miles of the town where the stops were made and who was at all interested in the subject of dairying could afford to miss the practical and instructive lectures and demonstrations which were given. If such a dairy special should during the coming weeks make a stop within reaching distance of you, or if one of any readers of this department it would be decidedly to their advantage to attend and get all the information possible out of the men in charge of the train.

Reaching a Compromise

Putting Jeffrey Webber and style together in one thought would have struck all his friends as a most startling act of lunacy, something in the light of touching a match to a bundle of excelsior and daring it to burn.

All his life he had shied at neckties on the theory that if the beneficent powers above had dowered a man with chin whiskers it was rank extravagance for him to adorn himself with unseen fluff. Likewise he could not understand the blind foolishness of masculine individuals who turned from celluloid collars which one could wash daily and thus save unnecessary laundry bills. As for clothes—they were merely required for covering.

This, then, was the problem Antoinette Webber had to wrestle with when she came back from boarding school and began to get the family arranged for her wedding.

Being a woman, her mother was quite amenable to new ideas, but when Antoinette tackled Jeffrey he figuratively stood up on his hind legs and roared a war cry.

"Dress suit!" he choked. "Me! At my age! Cracky! Never!"

"Now, father," Antoinette began soothingly, quite as though she held a tablespoonful of bitter medicine in her hand and was prying open his teeth with the other, "I want you to look your best when Horace and his friends get here."

"Dress suit!" he choked. "Me! At my age! Cracky! Never!"

"And you've got to wear a tie," Antoinette broke in, firmly.

They revived Antoinette's father with tender care, but he never was the same man after that. He gloomed around the premises, surveying with a hostile eye the housecleaning preparations for the coming wedding and he developed a jumpiness at everything unusual and suspicious.

Antoinette was in despair. She was marrying into rather a fashionable family and the thought of Horace's college friends and his family arriving to find that while her father had a heavy bank account he had no sense of sartorial values was a tragedy.

"Horace and his party won't get here till the day after," Antoinette told her mother in one of their hopeless conferences. "They won't notice dad so much then, but in the evening, at the wedding—mother, I'll just die if he wears that baggy old gray sack suit and his celluloid collar and no tie!"

"Then I'm afraid you're due to die, daughter," said Mrs. Webber, who had been married to Antoinette's father long enough to know.

"I won't!" snapped Antoinette, with the blind faith of youth in its powers. "I'll manage it somehow. I'm not going to have the only wedding I'll have in my whole life spoiled by father's ridiculous stubbornness!"

She and her father eyed each other warily toward the last, like gladiators before the fight. Her father ostentatiously bought a new celluloid collar and a fresh ten cent collar button and a new pair of calfskin boots.

The day of the wedding Antoinette's father, the only incongruous spot in a refurbished, decorated house, filled with frills and fluff, went upstairs to get ready for the evening's fray. Laying out his new collar and collar button and simply tossing his old gray clothes over a chair, he stepped into the bathroom for his ablutions. He was absent 20 minutes.

When he came back to his room he blinked. On the bed were spread some strange black things. The coat was low cut and had long tails. Patent leather pumps stood flendishly beside a pair of silk socks. There were also some weird stand-up linen collars and a box of white ties and a large bosomed shirt. There was nothing else in the way of clothes in the room.

Nobody paid any attention to his ravings and poundings, for everybody was dressing the bride or was getting dressed. Choking, gasping, bawling with rage, Antoinette's father danced in his bathrobe, poking a finger now and then at the hated garments.

Finally the wedding went on. Every body was present but the bride's father. After the ceremony and congratulations the bride herself headed a search party for him.

Holding her trailing satin skirt in one hand, Antoinette, accompanied by Horace, ran him down at last in the most secluded corner of the haymow. There he sat, hunched up, smoking a pipe fiercely. He had on the clothes, swathed, bunched around him, the dress shirt and the high collar and all—but the collar button gleamed defiantly between the strands of his whiskers, proclaiming his last stand—no necktie! He glared at his daughter and his newly achieved son-in-law.

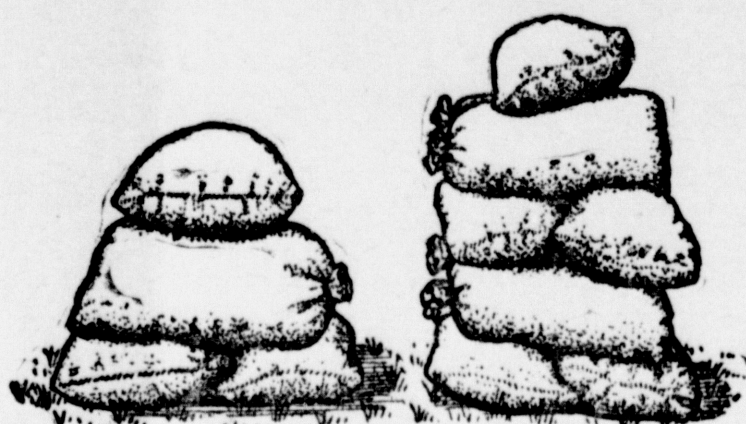

"Father," begged the bride tremulously, "come down, please! It's time to go in to supper. There's scalloped oysters and—"

"I've put on these clothes," her father interrupted her sternly, "because I'm a law abiding citizen and you took the others away, but I'll be everlastingly goldfurnished if I'm going to exhibit myself in 'em before sensible human beings! If you want the wedding check I've written out for you, Antoinette, you see that I got them oysters and other dainties right out here."

So they compromised on that basis.

Greater Farm Efficiency

Better Crops by Better Fertilizing
By PROF. A. R. WHITSON, Wisconsin College of Agriculture

Manure vs. Manure With Rock Phosphate on potatoes. The Use of Rock Phosphate in Addition to the Manure increased the yield 47 per Cent.

The development of the use of fertilizers in the United States has increased at a very rapid rate within the last two or three decades. Their use in the eastern and southern states is extensive. Within this period, however, Wisconsin agriculture has gone largely in the direction of dairying and in this system of farming the fertility of the soil, as is well known, is more generally conserved than in systems where a large part of the product of the farm is sold in the form of vegetables or grain. For this reason, in part, the use of commercial fertilizers in this state has been very limited. Moreover, the agricultural press of the state and the teaching of the Agricultural college has been opposed to the use of commercial fertilizers largely because the emphasis was placed on the advantages of dairying in the conservation of soil fertility. The time has come, however, when it is not profitable for farmers of the state to longer overlook the advantages which may come from the proper use of commercial fertilizers. There is much land in the state not adapted to dairying, such as large areas of sandy and marsh soil, and some sections of clay loam where the topography is so rough that the necessary amount of corn for silage cannot be grown to advantage. On lands of this class, other products must be grown for the market and it is in the growing of such crops as cabbage, potatoes, sugar beets, peas and corn for canning purposes, and other special crops that the use of commercial fertilizers is needed.

The large yields of practically all farm crops produced in such European countries as England, Germany and France, are frequently mentioned in agricultural papers as an evidence of the possibilities of intensive cultivation. By far the most important factor making possible such increases is the use of commercial fertilizers. It would be a difficult matter to find a farm of any importance in any of these countries on which a considerable amount of commercial fertilizers is not used. Nearly one-half of the immense output of our own phosphate mines is shipped abroad and in addition to that, enormous quantities of phosphate are mined in Europe and produced in the form of Thomas slag in the reduction of British iron ore which runs high in that element. Germany possesses practically the world's supply of potash fertilizer and this is drawn on heavily by that and adjacent countries. In addition to this, the growth of green manuring crops, practically always of the legume family, adds to the nitrogen supply, although enormous quantities of special nitrogen fertilizers are also used.

Without desiring in the least to underestimate the importance of dairy or other stock farming in its effect on the fertility of the soil, we feel that we can no longer afford to neglect the use of commercial fertilizers where they are called for.

Contrary to a rather common opinion, the kind of commercial fertilizers called for depends more on the character of the soil to be treated than on the crops to be grown. The amount to be used will depend to some extent on the kind of crop grown since some crops remove much larger quantities of the mineral elements from the soil than do others, but the particular kind of fertilizer needed is determined almost exclusively by the character of the soil. Much can be learned regarding the feeding of crops from experience gained in the feeding of animals. Just as it is well known that a certain balance among the ingredients of feed for stock should be maintained, so should there be a balance in the different elements of fertility available to growing crops. When crops are to be grown on marsh land which is extremely high in nitrogen but just as extremely low in phosphorus, and often in potash, these deficiencies must be made good in some way. Sandy soils, on account of their coarse texture and generally low content of all the essential elements, must frequently be supplied with practically all the essential elements for plant growth. The nitrogen may be added either directly in artificial fertilizers or indirectly through the growth of leguminous plants which have the power of fixing that element from the atmosphere. The nitrogen can be gathered in this way much more cheaply than it can be purchased and moreover, when added in the form of vegetable matter it decomposes and becomes available to growing crops slowly so that there is little danger of its loss by leaching from the soil, while nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia are extremely soluble and
